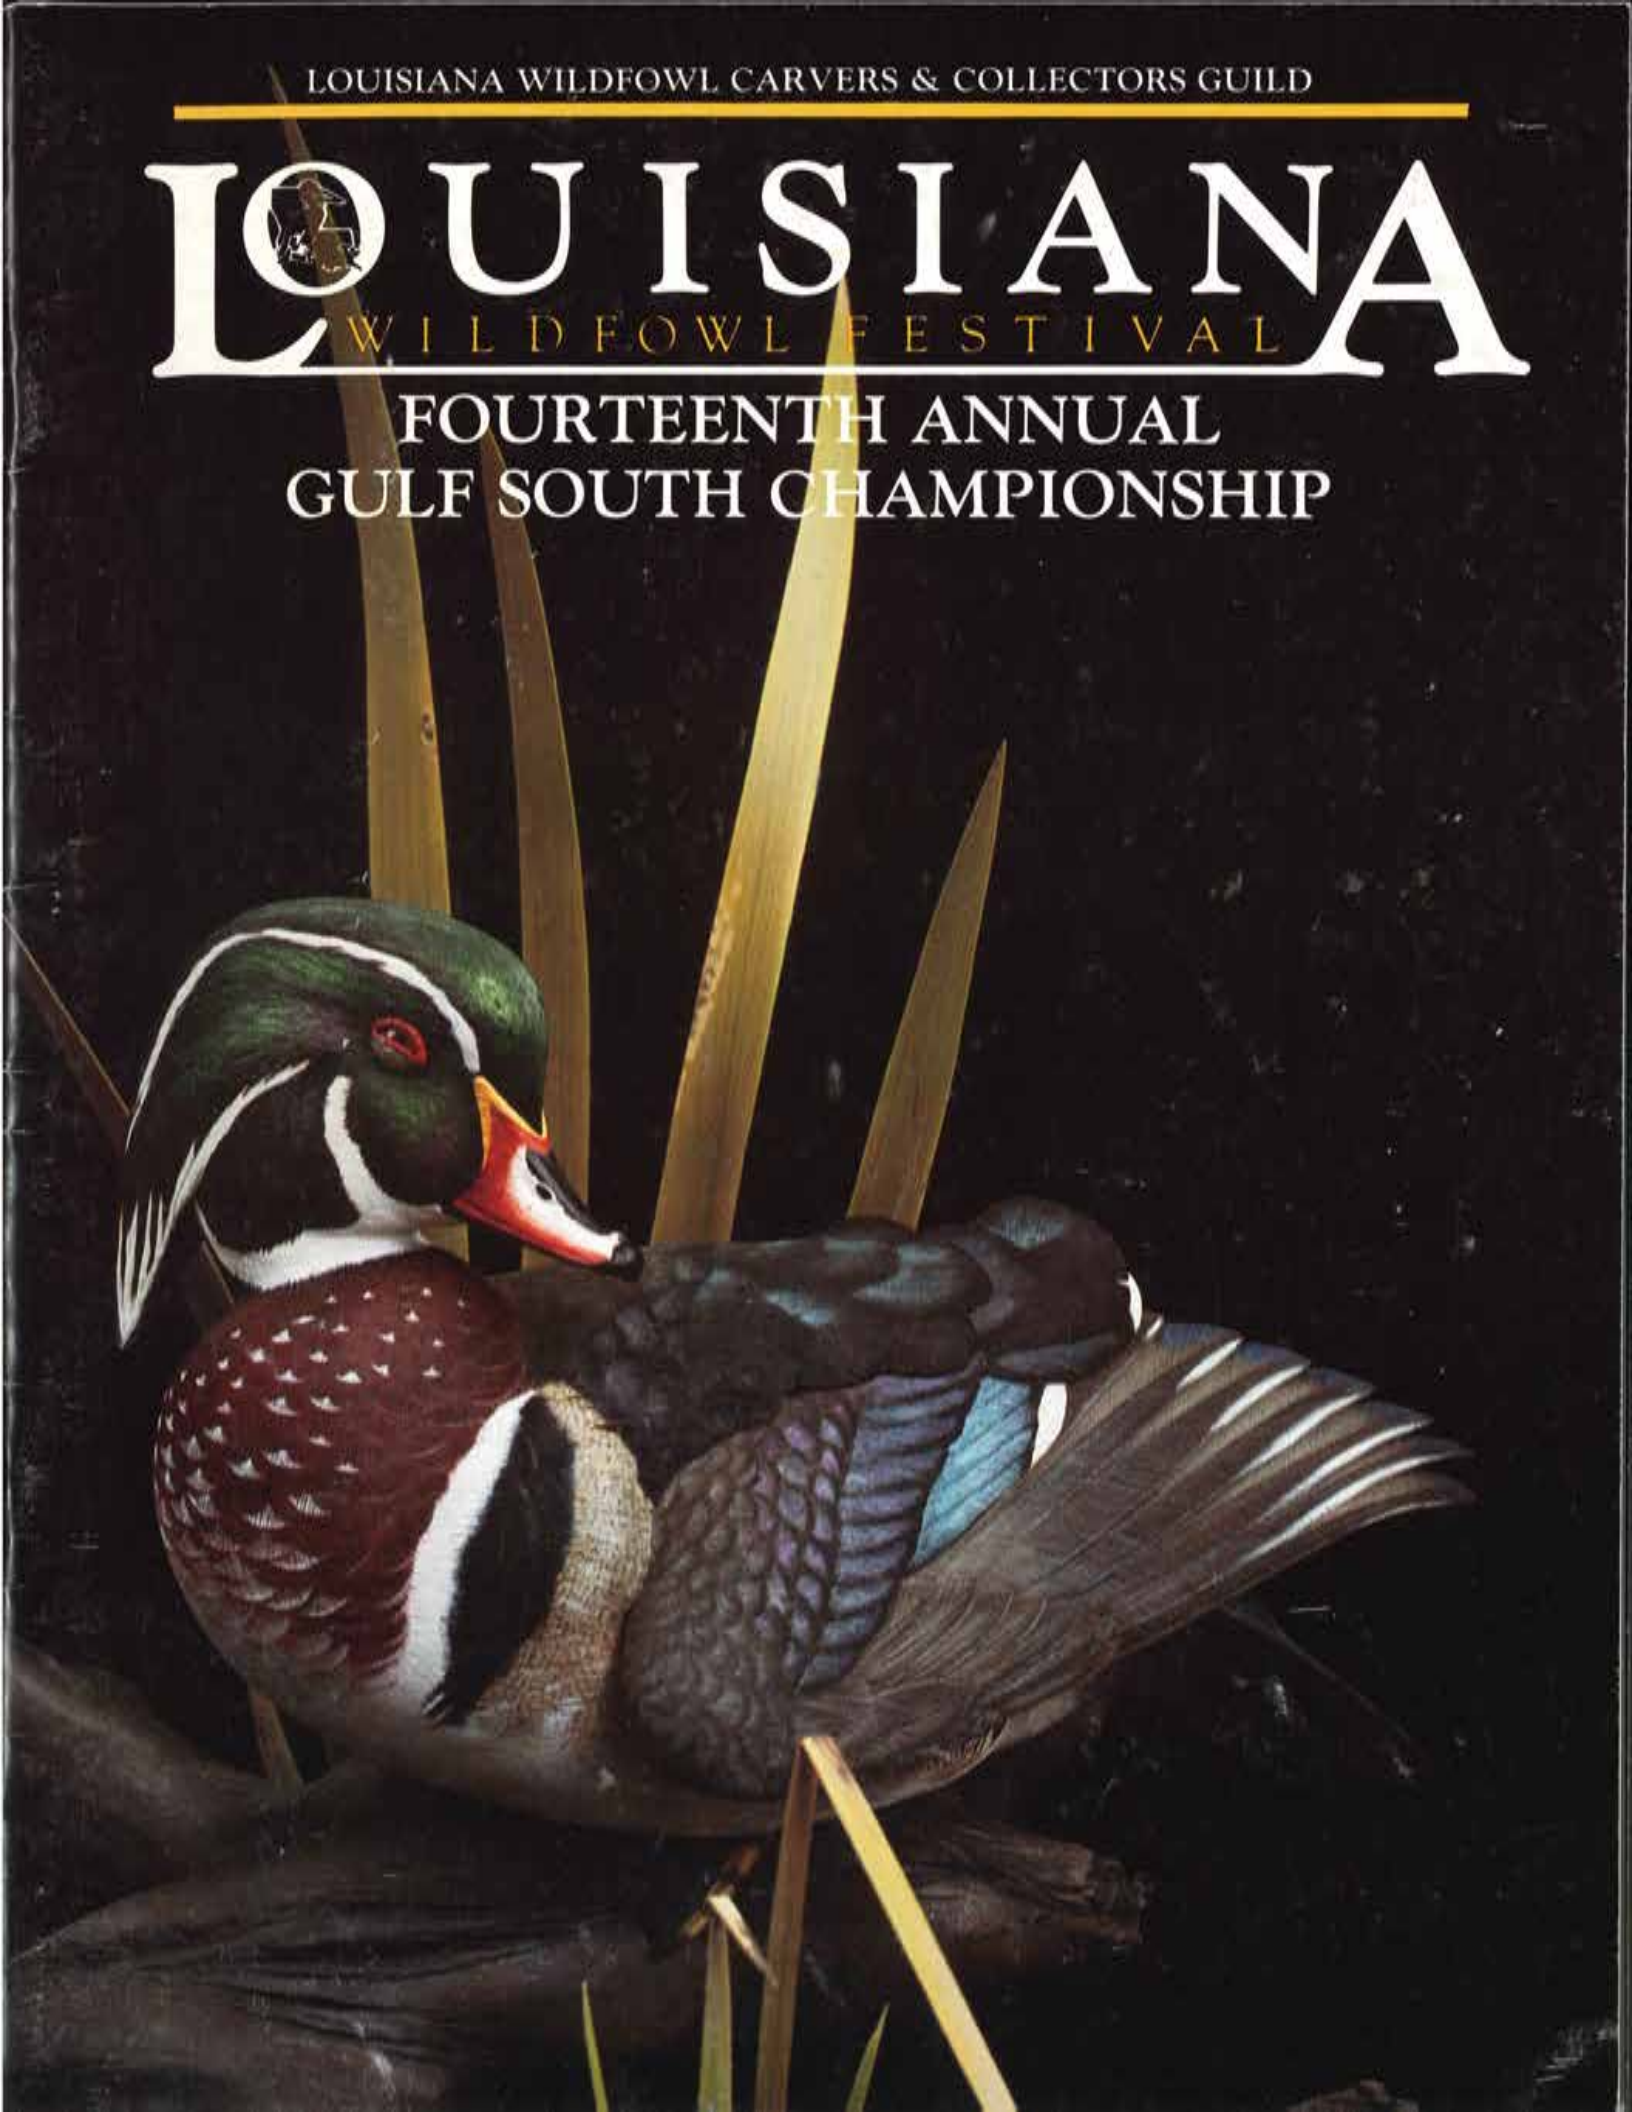
LOUISIANA WILDFOWL CARVERS & COLLECTORS GUILD

LOUISIANA

WILDFOWL FESTIVAL

FOURTEENTH ANNUAL GULF SOUTH CHAMPIONSHIP



Too pretty to get its feet wet.

Shaving by shaving, feather by feather, a wood block takes on life. The shaping of decoys has been a skill in Louisiana for as long as Cajun has been spoken. But this beauty will never flirt with a duck. Her charms are saved for the artistic, the art collector, for all the admirers of things carved by hand. We at Phillips Petroleum are captivated, too. We try to take as much care when the work we do touches the habitats of wildfowl, as these artists take with their birds. To every last feather.

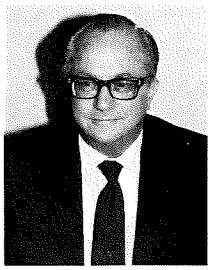
President's Message



I wish to extend my sincere congratulations to the Blue Ribbon winners of our 1987 festival; their victories did not come easy. Much planning and diligent, painstaking work went into each piece. The competition was outstanding and it appears to be getting tougher every year.

Never was it more evident than in the Gulf-South Championship—that was a real tough one to judge. The judges deliberated long and hard before casting their votes. The eventual winner was a magnificent pair of Wood Ducks carved by Phil Galatas—nice going Phil!

Granted, the carvers worked for their ribbons and recognition but so did the Fine Art and Photography contestants. They should stand up and be counted too, because they are stalwart contributors to the success of our show, also.

Remember, while the carvers were vying for honors, the "flat artists" and camera buffs were also eagerly awaiting the decision of the judges and the placement of ribbons. Likewise, the competition in these divisions grows keener every year as well.

Somehow, as we walk leisurely through the aisles viewing the art on display, we became awed by the skill and talent of the artists and tend to forget how this spectacle comes about year after year.

Well, the answer is simple; it is through the tireless efort of the Executive's Committee members and festival volunteers that make it possible. Just like the artists, these dedicated individuals do a lot of planning and diligent work of their own. Similarly, they are in competition; they are striving to make this year's show even better than the last—truly Blue Ribbon winners without notoriety.

It is needless to say it takes a lot of effort from a lot of people, so I want to thank everyone who contributed time and energy to ensure the success of our Fourteenth Annual Wildfowl Festival. In addition, a special thanks goes to our sponsors, and to the thousands who come each September to enjoy and appreciate what you have done to perpetuate this fasincating art associated with Waterfowling.

Chairman's Report

My dear friends:

We have had another year slip by. It doesn't seem possible that 1988 marks our 14th annual Gulf South Championship.

Looking back we can be proud of the improvements in the art of the decoy. We've come a long way, and the dedication to teaching the fine points of wildfowl art and carving has been the main thrust of our Guild. Our members have been wonderful in volunteering to teach at our monthly meetings the innermost secrets of their craft. This willingness to share is a trait that we can all look upon with pride. Remember—many of the secrets of our artist/carver members shared with you are the results of endless hours of study and experimentation. A gift like this is not taken lightly.

The result of this sharing is as always a two way street. Only by a free exchange of ideas can we hope to continue the improvement in the works we all cherish—the wetland heritage of wildlife art.

May we continue to think more in terms of "thyself", than in "myself". If we do we'll continue to build a better Guild, and a better community.

The painting competition and the open categories of carving are attracting a new group to our midst. The techniques that are applicable to one art form are frequently transferrable to another.

We are very happy for the national recognition our professionals have been receiving but we must never lose sight of the host of young and not so young neophites that will be the background of our future.

The work of the committees on judging and membership have been quietly at work since the last show, polishing and delving into your words of praise and of disent. We hope you've enjoyed the 1988 competition and that you'll join our roster of sponsors and members for 1989.

Well, there you have it. Get involved. We need your help and your enthusiasm. We have a great Guild, and it's only going to be as good as you make it.

I'd like to especially thank our volunteers, our officers and our executive committee. They have been unsung heroes of this show.

The quality of our monthly lectures were the finest we've ever enjoyed and our President Sid Lacoste and his guest lecturers are due a rousing hand. The programs were fantastic. Each and every one showed us something to add to our knowledge of the art.

Let's approach the new year with hope and courage—with your help we will continue to succeed.

Most Outstanding Member Awards

This annual award is intended to recognize the member who unselfishly donated his time and efforts to promoting a better atmosphere for keeping alive the carving techniques and art forms of Louisiana decoy making and wildfowl carvings.

He is the one who untiringly seeks out ways to better the displaying and preserving of the Art treasured by hunters, carvers, and lovers of the outdoors.

He who best fits this criteria and who has brought recognition to Louisiana and Louisiana Wildfowl Carvers & Collectors Guild in particular for 1988 is Bill Caver.

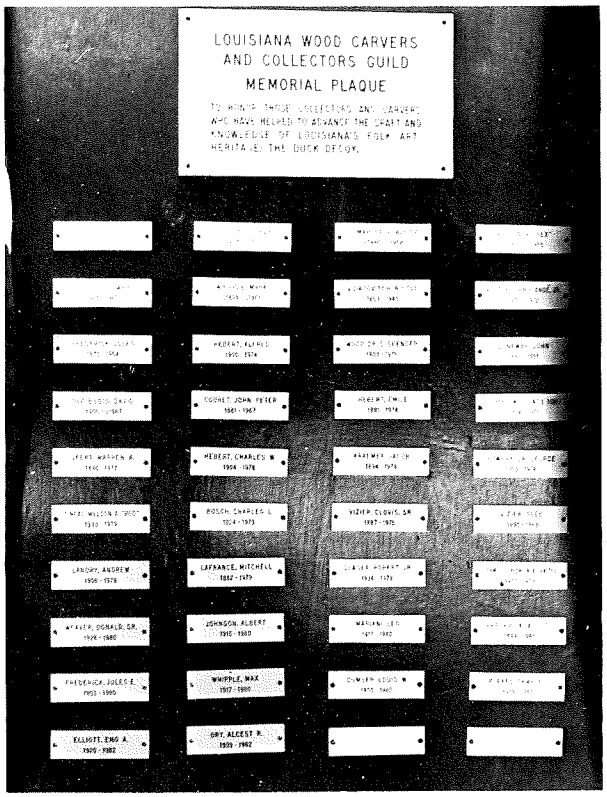
This 1988 Wildfowl Carvers Festival is dedicated to the memory of those individuals who have been memorialized on a plaque prepared by our guild. All members and those interested in the guild are eligible to submit a contribution of $25.00 or more to add names to this list of those we honor and revere. It is the work of those earlier carvers and collectors that have made the guild function so effectively. It is our hope that this plaque will be displayed at all functions of the guild in this and coming years.

For those interested in adding names to the list on this memorial, please contact Edward M. Alba or Charles W. Frank, Jr.



The past few months have witnessed the passing to a better world of four of our loyal members and supporters.

We extend our heartfelt sympathies to the families of James Hanemann, John Viola, Mike Cahn, and John Reynolds. The Louisiana Wildfowl Carvers Guild will miss their companionship and their council.

Their names have been added to our memorial plaque, which will be displayed at our annual festival and other activities.

This year Texaco, USA, New Orleans Operations Division will sponsor the Head Whittling Contest.

The 14th Annual Wildfowl Carvers Festival

September 24/25 at the University of New Orleans, the Wildfowl Carvers and Collectors Guild will host the largest competition for carvers and painters of wildlife, ever held in Louisiana.

The richest purses in the history of Louisiana carving competitions will be awarded. Over $20,000.00 in cash awards, ribbons and plaques will go to the best field of contestants entered to date. Many new talents will unfold, and a host of past champions will compete for this fantastic event.

Each year the competition attracts more visitors and contestants from all over the United States, and with good reason. New Orleans is the in place to see and be seen.

The art of the decoy has come a long, long way. From the reed lures of the Thule Indians to the acceptance of wildfowl art in some of our most prestigious museums, we have watched the transformation of a working artifact into the most popular and collectable of art forms. We are fortunate that Louisiana is the host to the roots of two of the truly native American art forms, jazz music and duck decoys.

To support this organization is to help in the resurgence of a great colloquial art form. The 300 families that are presently involved are but a nucleous of the potential of this organization. We are a tax deductible activity, with an all volunteer staff, so your contribution is used with total effectiveness.

This year, an auction of artifacts and paintings will be held on Sunday September 25th from one p.m. until four. This is a golden opportunity for lovers of sports art to obtain decoys, original paintings in all media and a host of beautiful prints offered by some of the South's best talents.

We extend a most cordial welcome to all. Questions should be addressed to Charles W. Frank, 615 Baronne St. New Orleans, La. 70113. "Ya-all" come.

Oil Country
Tubulars

WE'RE FEATHERING OUR OWN NEST.

As oil and gas explorers and producers, land and the minerals we expect to extract from our properties are our major assets.

As a large landowner, we know it makes no sense to take the oil and gas and run with it, leaving a wake of destruction.

The ground itself is too valuable.

The marsh lands we own, for instance, are priceless as nesting grounds for native Louisiana birds and as resting grounds for their Snowbird cousins. These marshes have serious ecological value for other species as well.

Selfishly, we know that with the coastline of Louisiana disappearing at the rate of 50 square miles a year, the marshes we are able to save can only increase in value to future generations of Louisiana inhabitants.

We take every measure possible, therefore, to restore and protect our properties...for the sake of our stockholders and for the sake of the fine-feathered families with whom we share the bounties of our coastal lands.
